February 17 2017

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA – Australian developed holiday rental property management solution Genkan today announced that they have entered into a partnership with Airbnb. The partnership allows Genkan to integrate the newly released Airbnb two-way API allowing visitors to the Airbnb website to directly book properties listed on the Genkan portal. The two API integration also allows users of the Genkan software to market their properties on the Airbnb platform. The introduction into the Genkan Connect functionality extends what is already provided by Booking.com, Homeaway and Stayz. Genkan CEO, Glenn Smith commented; “the Airbnb development is one of the great milestones for the company and extends the companies commitment for open integration which will over the next few months include Flipkey and Expedia”
